The President has reached the safe side of the crisis, and the good feeling of the country is on the boom.

There is such a demand for beer in Cincinnati that the brewers in that city are working 15 hours a day, and they are on a strike for 13 1/2 hours.

Mr. Conkling said at New York the other day that he was in the senatorial field to stay. Every day increases the chances that he will stay out of the Senate.

Out of an income of more than three times the salary of the President of the United States, the Prince of Wales is unable to meet his personal expenses. He is a royal pauper, and is becoming a Prince of dead-beats.

A New York dispatch says Mr. Conkling has admitted that the Legislature will elect Latham and Miller. If Mr. Conkling would no longer stand in the way of bringing the Albany fight to a close, he would greatly increase his popularity. "This is a time when all discord should be hushed."

If Mr. Vennor is to be believed, we have not yet had our hot July weather. He predicted that the hot days of the month would be the 16th, 17th, 25th, and 26th. He also predicts that there will be thunder storms on the 17th, 18, 27th, and 28. He gives us some hopes of enjoying cool nights in August, but puts therewith, thunder and lightning, wind and hail. He has the elements pretty badly worked up during the rest of the summer.

The President's inability to perform the duties of his office has raised the question as to whether the Vice President should act. But the weight of opinion is that there is no necessity of the Vice President acting. Before this, Presidents have left the government to run alone longer than President Garfield will be on his bed. One time President Monroe was absent four months, and last year President Hayes was gone two months to the Pacific coast, and during that time all business was suspended at the White House.

However bad the policy may be, an adjournment may as well be had at Albany. There does not appear to be much hope of electing two Senators. The Conkling men won't compromise unless it is in Conkling's favor, and the administration men won't compromise unless Conkling is counted out. With this state of things the Republicans may as well go home and prepare for the fall election. Any man who sulks during the campaign should be treated as a common enemy, and he who bolts, if Governor Cornell calls an extra session for the purpose of electing two Senators, ought to be politically laughed.

Mr. Edward P. Allen, the Greenback candidate for Governor, is a good deal like Horatio Seymour, of New York. While under no circumstances would the former accept the nomination, yet he feels a little flattered by the unanimous nomination, and having a vanity that can be tickled, he will likely accept. To the committee which waited upon him to inform him of his nomination, he said he would give the matter fresh consideration and gave them to understand he would allow his name to remain on the ticket. When a man will run for Governor with a chance of getting only 3,000 or 4,000 votes, he has got the disease pretty bad.

There is a Wisconsin mining company in Colorado with a capital stock of two million dollars. The president is ex-Chief Justice Dixon, formerly of this State. Nearly all the officers are Wisconsin men. It is claimed that there is no sham about this company. The land owned by the company was purchased for $30,000, and for the purpose of developing the mines, buying machinery, building furnaces, erecting stamp mills, and the like, the company has decided to sell 25,000 at $2.50 per share. According to the circulars issued, the mines of the Wisconsin company are among the best of the new mines in Colorado and promise to be a bonanza to the stockholders.

A few days ago the Gazette made mention of a most remarkable stage-coach robbery on the night of the 29th of June, occurring between Del Norte and Alamosa, in Colorado. It was the most daring and audacious robbery ever known in this country. It was twelve o'clock at night when the robbery was committed, and there were eight men and one woman inside the coach, and four men on top beside the driver, making fourteen in all. When the coach was about 20 miles from Del Norte, the dare-devil robber, with consummate address, matchless coolness, and strangely remarkable politeness in his words, suddenly stepped from behind a piece of canvas stretched alongside the road. This strange person ordered the driver to stop and all the persons in the stage to dismount. Not willing to get up a quarrel with this one man, all the fourteen persons complied with his request and took their position in line in strict accordance with the robber's instructions. He then took all their money and then asked the mail bags, and very coolly and good-naturedly cautioned his prisoners not to make a noise for the sake of their own personal safety. His soft and mellow voice seemed to send conviction to the heart of the silly thirteen male dupes who were being robbed by one man, and when he got all their money and valuable letters, he quickly disappeared in the darkness. A man by the name of H. M. Barton, answering very nearly the description of the daring robber, was arrested at Pueblo on the first of July, and has been committed for trial. A man who could dupe 13 armed men should not have any trouble before a modern jury.

NOBLE RESPONSES.

The attempted assassination of President Garfield was one of those touches of nature which makes the whole world kin. No sooner had the shot been fired by the assassin than the people of the United States came forward as one man to condemn the outrage. For once all party lines were obliterated. For once there arose an occasion when there was one common sentiment prevailing in every party of the country—the South being as deeply touched by the high tragedy as the North, and also being as tender in its expressions of sympathy, love, and hope, as the most loyal State in the Union.

When Governor Foster, of Ohio, suggested to the Governors of the other States and Territories, to appoint a day of thanksgiving and prayer, in view of the gratifying recovery of the President, there was no hesitation by any of the Governors as to what course to take. Every Governor of the thirty-seven States besides Ohio, responded promptly and expressed a hearty concurrence in the suggestion. The Southern Governors were among the very first to telegraph Governor Foster that they felt a personal interest in the matter and that they heartily approved of the idea to appoint a day of prayer, and would cordially act with the Northern Governors in the matter. The Governors of the Territories also responded, and with the same feeling which was shown in the dispatches of the other Governors. This condition of public sentiment shows that sectional hatred and internal division are dying out, and that in an emergency the people of the North and South have one common hope and an interest that can not be divided.

ILLITERACY IN THE UNITED STATES.

The report of the census in 1880 will show that from 20 to 22 per cent of the voting population of the United States are unable to read their ballots. One would hardly suppose that in such a free country as this, whose chief glory is its common school system, and whose academies, colleges, and universities are numbered by the hundreds, there could found a greater percentage of illiteracy than in some of the older countries of Europe. But it is so, and in spite of our marvelous school facilities, and the tens of millions of dollars paid out of the public funds annually for educational purposes, Germany has not as much illiteracy as the United States!

Ten years ago when the voting population of the United States was 7,223,000, there were 1,580,000 voters who could not read or write, and out of this number 1,123,000 were in the South. At that time, 20 per cent of the voting population could not either read or write and in the South 45 per cent of the votes were illiterate. The total vote cast and counted at the Presidential election last year was 9,297,000, and from very carefully prepared estimates made in the census office there are from 21 to 22 per cent who can not read or write. It is also ascertained that sixteen Southern States contain one-third of the entire vote of the country, and three-quarters of that vote is illiterate. In the Northern, Eastern, and Western States, there are 457,000 illiterate persons.

This condition of things has brought out considerable discussion of late as to the best methods of removing such an alarming amount of illiteracy. But as yet no practical methods have been suggested, and it is not likely any can be suggested. Much more than half the illiteracy in the United States is found in the larger cities; and the rapid growth of the cities is occasioned by the ignorant classes collecting therein. This is an evil omen for American democracy, but when the wisest are asked for a remedy they become confounded. The illiterate vote has become so large in the great cities of the country that it holds the balance of power in some of the most important national elections. They are a dangerous element in our political system and very frequently defeat the will of the people.

It may be interesting to know that the country where there is the lowest percentage of illiteracy is Bavaria, which at last reports was only 7 per cent! In 1871, Germany's percentage of illiteracy was only 12, and Japan 10, against 22 in this country. India has the greatest percentage of ignorance, there being only five in a hundred who can either read or write. In England the illiteracy amounted to 33 per cent in 1871, and in France 30 per cent. Scotland was only 16, and Ireland was 46.

"Forced by my political connections into public life, my sufferings were intensified by the comments of those who saw my face and heard covered with scrofulous humor," said a gentleman recently cured by Cuticura Remedies.

Special to the Gazette.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—The President improves satisfactorily. His condition is nearly normal. Only two bulletins will be issued hereafter—night and morning.

MILLER ELECTED.

Special to the Gazette.

ALBANY, July 16.—In the joint convention to-day, the vote stood for the successor of Platt:

Miller	100
Foran	10
Fisher	10
Wheeler	10

The administration men received the election of Miller with great rejoicing. An attempt to vote again for Conkling's successor was defeated.

The first vote for Conkling's successor was:

Latham	100
Conkling	10

THE ROAD TO HEALTH.

Improving Slowly—Why the Doctors do not Proclaim the President out of Danger.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—There is little to chronicle as regards the President's condition to-day, aside from the information contained in the official bulletins of the physicians. Every day passed brings the patient twenty-four hours nearer restoration to health. The danger from blood poisoning is now regarded as nearly past. The discharge of pus from the wound continues to be healthy, and there are no indications that the character of the discharge will change. Dr. Bliss says that it is possible an abscess may form around the ball, but he apprehended no danger from that source, as the abscess can be safely treated.

This morning, after the usual examination, the President fell asleep and rested soundly. The fever did not appear at the usual hour. It makes its appearance each day later, and continues for a short period than the day before. Every day stronger food is administered, and the President, care being taken not to overload the stomach, and the President eats with appetite and relish.

Dr. Bliss was asked this morning when he would officially pronounce the President to be out of danger. He replied, "There are unforeseen accidents which may occur, and there is no reason for deceiving the public. That is why we will not say he is out of danger entirely. He is improving right along, but that is no reason why we should say he is out of danger. But he is apparently a safe man."

RUMORS AND FACTS.

A Rumor that Vice President Arthur and Senator Conkling are Out—An Explanation.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—The Albany dispatches to the Press to-day contained a rumor that Vice President Arthur has fallen out with ex-Senator Conkling, and that Speaker Sharpe is to be appointed minister to Belgium. The rumor asserts that Mr. Arthur's late conferences with Secretary Blaine are explained on this theory, and also Mr. Conkling's sudden visit to Washington. The rumor is in great part entirely without foundation. The Vice President's visit to Washington, it is believed, has been purely of good results. He has passed through a remarkable experience, and it would be very strange if the effects produced no impression upon his mind. No man ever suffered more keenly than did General Arthur during the few days that the President's life was in absolute peril. He had neither the time nor the inclination to entertain the desire to succeed to the post of chief magistrate.

THE WILLIAMS OUTLAWS.

The Outlaws Still in the Big Woods of Eau Claire.

Eau Claire, July 15.—Captain Mott, of the Ida Campbell, arrived this evening, and reports that there is no doubt of the capture of the notorious Williams brothers this evening. This morning the forces were largely increased and had the railroads completely surrounded where they are secreted in the woods, and there was not the least chance of their making an escape. Earl Chase sent a small squad of men to the place of concealment last night, and they were to be ready to move at a moment's notice. It was the intention of the guards to make a raid through the woods this afternoon, but as there is no telegraph communication nearer than thirty miles of the place of rendezvous, the result cannot be given until a late hour, and probably not before morning. Things look very favorable for their speedy capture, and their prisoners to the execution will probably bring their carcasses with bullets without ridding them before a tribunal if captured. This is the latest that has been received from the headquarters of the pursuers to-day.

THE FINGER OF FATE.

An Outlaw Killed by Lightning in Tennessee.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Some days ago a gang of counterfeiters were captured by detectives of the secret service in Tennessee, and two of them escaped from custody. To-day Chief Brooks was informed that Mike Merrill, chief of the gang, who was arrested and escaped to the woods, had been found dead, and his remains had been buried. It seems that he was sleeping under a tree when a thunderstorm came up and he was struck and instantly killed by lightning, as was shown by marks upon his body. This man was known as a desperate outlaw and had given the government detectives great trouble. His miraculous death probably saved the life of some of them, as it would have been very strange if he had been recaptured without killing some one of the officers.

FATHER RUDOLPH.

An Ohio Catholic Priest Resigns his Pastorate and Gets Married.

CLEVELAND, July 15.—Your correspondent had an interview this evening with Mr. J. H. Rudolph, formerly Father Rudolph, of Clyde, who resigned the pastorate of the Catholic church of that place, a short time ago, and was married last evening to a Miss McGuire, of Fremont. Mr. Rudolph, who was found to be an intelligent and courteous gentleman, was a popular pastor for several years at different points, including Clyde, Milan, Fremont, and Findlay, and the announcement of his marriage will create a genuine sensation in those places.

CROP PROSPECTS.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Returns received at the agricultural department up to July 1, indicate an improvement in the cotton crop as compared with its condition in June. The average condition is 95 against 100 at the same time last year. The plant is small and about ten days late, but is healthy. In Georgia and Alabama the crop promises to be better than it was in those States last year, while in Texas and Arkansas it will not be so good. The best crop prospects are much better than they were in June, and the average will be about 83 through out the country. In the Atlantic States the crop will be only slightly inferior to that of last year, but in the northwest and in Ohio and Indiana the average will fall below 70, and in Illinois will not be over 60. Of the spring wheat States, Iowa returns an average of 72. There is an increased area of corn in the condition of the crop is by no means as promising as it was at this time last year. In the Atlantic States the crop is pulled from the cold, wet spring. Texas, where the drought has caused serious damage. In the western northwest the average is below that of last year, particularly in Iowa.

AN UNFORTUNATE MASON.

ST. PAUL, July 15.—A Pioneer Press special from St. Peter says that a man who gave the name of G. A. McConley was taken from the train there in a dying condition and is being cared for by the Masons of St. Peter. He is from Deadwood, and has quite a sum of money and several mining certificates. He was en route to his home at Chapel Hill, North Carolina, where his brother, David McConley lives, who has been telegraphed that his brother is dying.

THE TICKET WAR.

NEW YORK, July 15.—The railroad passenger rates war continues. Attempts looking toward a conference of the Presidents of the companies has not been made, and it is believed no consultation between the heads of competing lines will be had until, as one railroad man said, "passenger rates reach bed-rock." When there can be no more concessions, the war of passenger rates, it is said, will be reduced to a war of Chicago are down to $11, and falling.

APPELLING OCCURRENCE.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 15.—The Keiff paper, Labour, publishes a telegram from Pontive, in the province of Koorak, which states that nineteen men and girls were shut in a barn by the neglect of the property called the "Bulgin." For refusing to work, and that all were burned to death by the village mob setting fire to the building. One person arrested confesses to his share in the crime.

Mr. Ruffenstein, Boston, Mass., writes: "Your Spring Blossom has cured me of dyspepsia of four (4) years standing. I have regained my normal appetite, and can sleep well, and feel like a new man. Price 50 cents, and trial bottles 10 cents. Sold by A. J. Roberts and Sherer & Co."
